

Test your knowledge on presentation skills and practices

1. What techniques can be helpful to prevent nervousness before a presentation? Select all that apply.

1 / 1 point

☒ Take deep breaths

✓ Correct

It is helpful to channel your excitement and take deep breaths to keep from getting nervous about a presentation.

☒ Channel your excitement

✓ Correct

It is helpful to channel your excitement and take deep breaths to keep from getting nervous about a presentation.

☐ Describe each graph in-depth

☐ Speak quickly so you don't run out of time

2. Fill in the blank: When presenting, begin by discussing the _____, the obvious questions your audience might have, and the information they need to understand your findings in context.

1 / 1 point

☒ broader ideas

☐ specific details about your analysis

☐ business task

☐ solution to the business problem

✓ Correct

When presenting, begin by discussing the broader ideas, the obvious questions your audience might have, and the information they need to understand your findings in context.

3. What practices are helpful for keeping an audience focused on your presentation? Select all that apply.

1 / 1 point

☒ Be mindful of nervous habits

✔ Correct

To keep an audience focused during a presentation, make eye contact, reduce nervous habits, and pause intentionally.

☒ Make eye contact

✔ Correct

To keep an audience focused during a presentation, make eye contact, reduce nervous habits, and pause intentionally.

☐ Make frequent gestures

☒ Add intentional pauses

✔ Correct

To keep an audience focused during a presentation, make eye contact, reduce nervous habits, and pause intentionally.

4. Fill in the blank: During the _____ of a presentation, a data analyst presents clear actions and their potential business impact.

1 / 1 point

☐ goal statement

☐ introduction

☐ question-and-answer session

☒ “so what?” moment

✔ Correct

During the “so what?” moment of a presentation, a data analyst presents clear actions and their potential business impact.