

Test your knowledge on the data analysis toolbox

1. What is the term for a digital worksheet that data analysts use to store, organize, and sort data?

1 / 1 point

- ☒ Spreadsheet
- ☐ Report
- ☐ Application
- ☐ Document

✓ Correct

A spreadsheet is a digital worksheet that data analysts use to store, organize, and sort data.

2. What is a key difference between a formula and a function?

1 / 1 point

- ☒ A formula is a set of instructions, whereas a function is a preset command.
- ☐ A formula is a preset command, whereas a function is a set of instructions.
- ☐ A formula automatically performs a process or task, whereas a function requires the user to type directions in order for it to execute.
- ☐ A formula is a more efficient way of executing a task than a function.

✓ Correct

A formula is a set of instructions, whereas a function is a preset command.

3. What does SQL stand for?

1 / 1 point

- ☒ Structured query language
- ☐ Systematic quality level
- ☐ Software quotient listing
- ☐ Searchable question lingo

✓ Correct

SQL stands for structured query language. SQL enables data analysts to communicate with a database.

4. Which tool in the data analysts toolbox is most likely to involve the creation of graphs, maps, or charts?

1 / 1 point

- ☒ Data visualization
- ☐ Spreadsheet
- ☐ SQL
- ☐ Database

✓ Correct

Data visualization is most likely to involve the creation of graphs, maps, or charts.