

Test your knowledge:

The data team's role in the data lifecycle

- ✓ 1. A company is currently in the process of interviewing candidates for several different data roles. One candidate has experience analyzing data for analysis and reviewing databases. They also have experience with scripting languages and have created visualizations and presented findings to team members and stakeholders. What data role would best suit this data professional?

☐ Data scientist

✓ ☒ Data analyst

☐ Data architect

☐ Data engineer

Data analysts collect, transform and organize data in order to draw conclusions, make predictions, and drive informed decision-making.

- ✓ 2. A data professional is seeking employment opportunities. They are skilled at scripting code and building data models. They are also passionate about researching data and helping organizations answer business questions. Which type of data role is this data professional best suited for?

- ☐ Data analyst
- ☐ Data engineer
- ☐ Data architect
- ✓ Data scientist

They are best suited for a data scientist role. Data scientists work primarily in data research. They identify business questions, collect data from multiple sources, organize it, and find answers.

- ✓ 3. A job posting for a data professional contains the following information: "Our organization is seeking a data professional with experience in data importing, manipulation, calculation, and reporting on business data. Candidates are expected to create data visualizations and present findings to stakeholders. This position will operate under the direction of a data engineer." Based on the job posting, what data role best fulfills this position?

- ✓ Data analyst
- ☐ Data team lead
- ☐ Data scientist
- ☐ Data architect

Data analysts perform data analysis workflows, including importing, manipulating, calculating, and reporting on business data. Data analysts work under the direction of a data architect or engineer.

- ✓ 4. A company is currently interviewing candidates for several different data roles. One candidate has experience formatting data for analysis and creating reliable data infrastructures, including building data pipelines allowing accessibility for specific team members. What data role would best suit this data professional?

- ☐ Data analyst
- ✓ ☒ Data engineer
- ☐ Data architect
- ☐ Data scientist

A data engineer role would best suit the data professional. Data engineers are data professionals that transform data into useful formats for analysis and create a reliable data infrastructure.